Embodied Power, Privilege, and Oppression in Health Care

Wednesday, March 4th
6-9pm
P&S Alumni Auditorium
650 West 168th Street, First Floor

RSVP: jl3059@cumc.columbia.edu

This participatory workshop will facilitate critical dialogue about power, privilege, and oppression experienced in health care institutions and will develop frameworks for understanding how political and social forces impact our lives, constituency, and work as health care professionals. This theater-based workshop will facilitate these discourses with a keen eye on intersecting identities including race, sexuality, gender, and spirituality.
